

IPSE OVERVIEW AND STUDENT PREPARATION

Inclusive Post Secondary Education (College!) for students with Intellectual/Developmental Disabilities (IDD) is only a few years old in Oklahoma. The purpose of this presentation/conversation is to equip special education staff, councilors and interested educators with information about college programs for these students, and help them prepare students for the possibility of college after high school.

INCLUSIVE POST SECONDARY EDUCATION

“As a Special Education Teacher who has had several students go into post secondary college programs, it has shown me how important it is not to set limits on our students. Students who I honestly thought would never reach the level of independence required for these types of programs not only succeeded in them but reached the new goals I never would’ve thought possible. Watching my students go through these programs has shown me the importance of creating lifelong independent learners with no limits. Every student deserves a chance to go to college!”

Stephani Barger - Special Education Department Head, Owasso

What Will be Included?

- Overview of 3 Inclusive Post Secondary Education (IPSE) programs for students with intellectual disability and 1 IPSE program for students with autism.
- Difference between certificate and degree seeking programs.
- Financial Assistance Information
- Explanation of what a Comprehensive Transition and Post Secondary Program (CTP) designation means for students.
- Samples of IEP Goals that align with IPSE programs
- Engaging students to consider college.
- Materials to share with families.
- One hour format - In person or ZOOM

Is this a good use of my time?

Will this help me to help my students?

To many students, "COLLEGE" is just a word, and COST is always a factor. Students with IDD that want to be as independent as possible, and have skills that college could enhance need guidance to help them know what is possible. Families need to know that financial help is available! K-12 teachers can provide that guidance!

Who are we?

Partnership/Connections

We are a partnership with Oklahoma Department of Rehabilitation Services, Sooner SUCCESS and Oklahoma State Department of Education with the mission to support IPSE programs and the students they serve.

GET IN TOUCH TO SCHEDULE

julie@okipsealliance.org | www.okipsealliance.org

Julie Lackey
Director
OKIPSE Alliance